Foreword

The United States entered "the war to end all wars" seventy years ago, but much may still be learned from a study of that vast military and diplomatic experience. Accordingly, the Center of Military History is now bringing back into print a series of volumes on the World War I period. The facsimile reprint of the Order of Battle of the United States Land Forces in the World War, in five volumes, provides a logical introduction to the series. It will be followed shortly by a newly formatted edition of the United States Army in the World War (1917-1919), a major collection of documents pertaining to the conflict.

The concise and unique data in the Order of Battle is central to any serious examination of the Army's involvement in World War I. The Center's predecessors—the Army War College's Historical Section, and the Special Staff's Historical Division—originally published this work in three volumes. The first two concentrated on the American Expeditionary Forces (AEF). Volume 1 covers the AEF's general headquarters; the American Services of Supply; armies; army corps; and separate forces, including the three French army corps under American command in 1918 as well as American units in North Russia and Siberia. Volume 2 provides outline histories of the AEF's divisions. The essays in these two volumes combine information about the command and composition of units with tables that offer the reader a broad survey of operations in both major and minor theaters and the rear areas. Volume 3, consisting of five chapters organized in two parts, presents an array of useful information on the zone of the interior. Part 1 includes the organization and activities of the War Department, the territorial departments, the divisions that did not deploy overseas, and data about posts, camps, and stations. Part 2 consists of a directory of troops, covering all organizations that made up the Army between 1917 and 1919. Each volume begins with a guide to the use of the material.

In publishing this facsimile reprint, the Center has made some formatting changes to assist the modern reader, but the original text is unchanged. Volumes 1 and 2 are reprinted intact. Volume 3, first published in two parts, is now divided into three, in three separate volumes. For the reader's convenience, a new appendix, "Posts, Camps, and Stations Index," has been added to the new Part 2. The original Part 2, the directory of troops, is now Part 3. The volume's consecutive pagination remains the same. To all volumes the Center has added its own front matter and, after the half-title, incorporated relevant pages of the original introductory material (indicated by brackets around original folios).

Any work that attempts to describe such a vast and complex subject inevitably includes errors of both omission and commission. The Order of Battle is no exception. No attempt has been made to correct any errors in the work. For those students who wish to pursue these matters, they will find most of the original source material in the custody of the National Archives and Records Administration. What remains of the original manuscript for the volumes is in the custody of the Center and is available for examination.

In increasing numbers, military historians are coming to realize that the Army's experiences in World War I offer students of the profession of arms a vast classroom in which they might study the many facets of their subject. The Order of Battle is not a definitive guide, but it is a fine place to begin any in-depth study of that mighty war.

CHAPTER V

DIRECTORY OF TROOPS

SHOWING

MOBILIZATION, CHANGES IN STATUS, MOVEMENTS, DEMOBILIZATION, AND OTHER DISPOSITION, OF UNITS IN THE ZONE OF THE INTERIOR

INTRODUCTION

The Directory has been prepared with the object of accounting for all troops forming part of the Army in 1917, 1918, and 1919. Included therein are the troop units stationed in the Zone of the Interior, i.e., within the continental limits of the United States and its possessions; and those serving in the American Expeditionary Forces abroad.

ARRANGEMENT OF CHAPTER

Two methods have been employed to treat the several units, viz: (a) All tactical, special, and technical units down to and including independent battalions, as well as independent tactical units of company or similar size are traced through all posts, camps, or stations, from outbreak of war or organization to demobilization or reversion to peace status. Stations occupied for a very brief period only have generally been omitted. Exceptions to this rule are the units of the American Expeditionary Forces, for which no stations are recorded for service overseas; but the period of such service is shown. (b) Special and technical units of company or lesser size are shown in special tables with period of active service, but without indication of posts, camps, or stations where such service was rendered.

Replacement units of a temporary nature, whether tactical or technical, have been omitted.

All troop units have been arranged by categories and subcategories according to the order shown in Unit Index, p. 996.

TREATMENT OF SPECIAL CASES

In some branches, cases will be found where two or more units have the same numerical designation. In order to avoid confusion and properly to identify each of these units, a Roman figure in parentheses has been placed immediately in rear of the numerical designation, thus: 5th (I) Aero Squadron; 5th (II) Aero Squadron.

A good many changes in unit designation occurred within the Air Service and within other categories. All such changes have been carefully accounted for by cross references under column of remarks with a view to following the life of any unit, from the beginning to the end of the war, under its various names. In order to mark successive changes in the designation of a squadron, for instance, there have been entered the letters a, b, etc., under each squadron concerned, opposite which is related the history of that particular unit in all its transformations.

To illustrate, in the case of the 2d Reserve Aero Squadron, "a. 45th (II) Aero Squadron" denotes that the 2d Reserve Aero Squadron was redesignated as the 45th Aero Squadron, the Roman figure in parentheses indicating that it was the second squadron of this numerical designation, which may be verified by consulting page 1005 where the 45th (1) Aero Squadron is accounted for. The letter b. under 2d Reserve Aero Squadron preceding "Squadron A" means that the 45th (II) Aero Squadron was transformed into Squadron A, Gerstner Field, La.

The numerical designation of school squadrons at the various flying fields in the United States was discontinued in the summer of 1918, and replaced by letter designation. Thus, 2d (I) Aero Squadron became Squadron A, Kelly Field. In Nov. 1918, the personnel of the lettered squadrons of each flying field was merged into a so-called Flying School Detachment at such station.

As far as practicable, the next higher tactical organization of which a particular unit formed a part at any time during the war is shown in the column of remarks.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE OF TABLES

In order to obtain an outline of the history of any unit, it will be necessary to consult first of all the Unit Index on page 996. Having found the proper page number appearing opposite the particular category in the Index, look for the proper tables in which the unit in question appears in its numerical order.

For instance, in the case of the 91st Aero Squadron (observation), by perusing the various columns from left to right, it will be found that it was organized in Aug. 1917 at Kelly Field, Tex. From there it moved to Garden City, N. Y., in Oct. 1917; left for overseas from the Port of Embarkation of Hoboken during the same month; returned from overseas in June 1919 and took station at Mitchel Field, N. Y.; moved to Park Field, Tenn., in July 1919, and to Rockwell Field, Calif., in Sept 1919; and was stationed at Mather

Field in Oct. 1919. From the column of remarks it will be learned that this squadron was a component of the First Army Observation Group. All such entries in column of remarks, opposite each unit, must be regarded as having general application only and not as referring to any particular date appearing in other columns pertaining to the unit.

In the example of the 74th (I) Aero Squadron, we find that it was organized in Aug. 1917 at Kelly Field, Tex.; that its designation was changed in Sept. 1917 at Kelly Field, Tex., to 74th Aero Squadron (construction); that it moved in Dec. 1917 to Camp Morrison, Va., where its designation was changed, a second time, in Feb. 1918 to 486th Aero Squadron (construction); that it moved to the Port of Embarkation of Hoboken in Mar. 1918, went overseas during the same month, and returned from overseas in June 1919; and that it was demobilized in June 1919 at Mitchel Field, N. Y.

If it be desired to trace the history of any unit while overseas, it will be necessary to consult Volume I or II, or both of the Order of Battle Series, after ascertaining the particular division or higher tactical organization, of which the unit in question formed a part. Inasmuch as only major tactical organizations are described in Volumes I and II, it will generally not be possible to find any individual unit history below brigade organization, but a record of battle participation of any tactical unit can, as a rule, be deduced from the information presented in these volumes.

[1] Originally consisted of 10 Bns. of 3 cos. each. In October 1918, the 10th, 41st, 42d, and 43d Engrs. were merged with the 20th Engrs. Latest authorisation provided for 29 battalion headquarters, 145 companies, and 46,025 enlisted men. See p. 190.

[2] In existence from October 1917 to August 1919, but during this period never functioned as a regiment. There was no regimental headquarters; battalions and companies were attached to the various armies and corps primarily for surveying and printing duties, one battalion (later known as 74th Engineers) being used for flash and sound ranging.
